A Word from the Directors...

Weeks before the Broadway opening of Anything Goes in 1934, the show went through a major script rewrite. Originally about the merry adventures of passengers on a transatlantic crossing while a ship sinks, the cruise liner Morro Castle caught fire and sank, with more than one hundred people losing their lives. Facing the possibility of having to close a show before it could open, the producers hired a new team to fashion a new script that kept the ship afloat. The resulting libretto served to connect Cole Porter's amazing score.

Though produced widely now (including three times at Pascack Valley: 1992, 2003 and now), Anything Goes was a risqué comedy for its day. In fact, the writing team selected the title, and lyrics to the title song, to mock the 'moral decline' that some people felt America was experiencing. Some things never change.

The show takes place during a time when transatlantic cruises were the only means of travel between the United States and Europe. However, these ships were more than simply transportation—they were extravagant reflections of the sophisticated, smart, glamorous people who filled their passenger lists. These ships welcomed the elite into a world where they could forget their troubles and enjoy the splendor of the seas. We hope that this production offers a similar escape for our audience.

Bon Voyage!

final bow on the PV stage. A bow that thanks her PV Theatre family for showing her the magical world of theatre. A bow that says farewell to the freshmen, sophomores, and juniors that she has gotten to know so well. A bow that readily takes all the knowledge she has learned from her directors on to the next stage of her life. A bow that remembers the journey her fellow seniors have taken with her. A bow that sets in front of her the next adventure. This last bow is not a sad moment for Kira, not even a bittersweet one, because this last bow will carry with it everything she has known PV Theatre to be: a wonderful thrill.

Christina Quezada (Passenger) has been in Peter Pan as (Wendy) and has also been in the productions of The Little Mermaid and Aladdin, where she played in the ensemble. Her first PV Theatre production was The Dining Room by AR Gurney

In the fall, Calvin is looking forward to attending the New School for Drama in NYC where he'll study acting, playwriting, and clowning. In his free time, he enjoys writing music, jumping the shark, and considering musical theatre as an allegory for his life regarding the presence of arbitrary one-liners and the chorus of tap dancers who sing to him in twelve-part harmony. He thanks his friends and family, the Lupsfers and the entire cast and crew of Anything Goes.

Jacob Ricco (Purser) is a sophomore. This is his second show at PV, with his first being Cabaret in which he played a waiter. He loves being a part of the process. Thank you for being the best big sister ever!! Your brother and sister have always looked up to you (and not only from the front row!) You are their greatest treasure and you couldn't have been a better role model! They have witnessed your hard work and perseverance, which has paved a wonderful path for them, as well as yourself — a path to success. Thank you big sister.

You are loved, always and forever. Dad, Mommy, Kaylee and Justin Best Wishes to the cast and crew of Anything Goes!
